

Talk about living together.

Take the free DISC test. Compare with your roommate. Choose a question you both want to discuss.

Five short scenarios take about three minutes. You will not be asked for payment details.

Ask residents to scan the code over a few minutes, not all at once.

Scan to take the free test.

wiredtype.com/in/rl-roommate-week

After your test, send your roommate a comparison link. The two of you can see a free comparison of how you work together.

These questions are optional. Use your styles to start a conversation about what you each need.

Agree on quiet hours.

When do you each need quiet, and how will you ask for it?

Talk before inviting guests.

How much notice would you each like before a guest visits?

Decide how to share chores.

Which chores will you each handle, and when will you check how the plan is working?

Make room for a disagreement.

How can you raise a concern, and when should you return to it if you need a pause?

Protect time to study.

What helps you each concentrate, and how will you protect that time?

Your result stays with you. Your floor and resident assistant see it only if you choose to share it.

Find questions for your DISC pair at wiredtype.com/roommates.